Snap Poll # 3 – Living in the regions of WA

Summary:

This snap poll sought Western Australian’s sentiment around living in the regions of Western Australia. We had 133 responses, telling us that 68 per cent of the respondents, either lived in a regional or remote part of Western Australia or still do.

Respondents felt that more employment opportunities (30 per cent), a reduction in living costs (18 per cent) and better health and mental health services (18 per cent) would make a positive difference to the quality of life in regional and remote Western Australia.
